

*Sacred Singleness:
The Set-Apart Girl's Guide to Purpose and Fulfillment*

By Leslie Ludy

Chapter 5: Contentment in Christ

Discussion Questions:

1. On pages 68-69 Leslie discusses how married women can also try to find their deepest longings in their husband by nagging and manipulating them. Do you feel like when you get married all of those longings will go away? Or do you realize that they will carry on into marriage?
2. "Rather than being preoccupied with solving the dilemma of our singleness, God's Word says we should be consumed with loving, knowing, serving, and worshipping Jesus Christ. He will supernaturally enable you with the joy and peace you need in order to walk this narrow road." p. 70

The peace and joy you will experience by being consumed with God is supernatural. Does this free you from feeling like you have to achieve peace and joy on your own? Do you understand that it is nothing you can achieve on your own?

3. Do you believe you can be called to singleness for a time and not a lifetime?
4. Do you believe you can be completely content in your singleness and still desire marriage at the same time? What does this look like to you?

This Week's Prayer:

Lord, I want to experience your supernatural peace and joy that comes from being completely surrendered to you. Please help me. I know that I cannot achieve this on my own. Help me to know contentment now so that I will know contentment in marriage. Amen.
